PRIVITY CREDIT

9 January 2025

Dear Investor,

Dinimus Credit Fund (DCF) rebrands to Privity Credit

We are delighted to let you know that as part of our ongoing growth and evolution, Dinimus Credit Fund (DCF) is rebranding to Privity Credit on 9th January 2025. We believe our new name and visual identity reflects our vision for the future and how we want to serve our clients.

What's changing

- Our name: Privity Credit is a nod to our area of expertise - private credit.
- Our open fund's name: DCF Private Debt Fund IV-B will change its name to the Privity Private Income Fund which we believe better reflects the objective of the Fund.
- Closed fund names: Our past, closed vintages will change their names from DCF Private Debt Fund to Privity Private e.g DCF Private Debt Fund III becomes Privity Private III.
- Visual identity: The new brand name comes with a refreshed and more modern visual identity which you'll see rolled out across our fund documentation, website and investor communications.
- Digital presence: We wanted to provide an easier, more transparent and easy to understand website so have completely rebuilt a new site with that in mind. Please bookmark privitycredit.com and update your email address book with the team's new emails (firstname.lastname@privitycredit.com).

What stays the same

While our brand is evolving, the core of what makes us your trusted private credit partner remains unchanged:

- Your team: The same dedicated team you know and trust will continue to support you.
- Our commitment: Our focus on delivering dependable income through quality private credit investments remains our top priority.

Why the change?

With our firm entering its next stage, it made sense to reset our branding to reflect a forward-thinking private credit specialist that will leverage its 11+ year history to build a firm focused on delivering for our clients over the long term.

PRIVITY CREDIT

Next steps

Over the coming weeks, you will see our new brand identity reflected across all our communications, materials and platforms. Rest assured, all agreements and points of contact remain the same.

As part of the rebrand we invite you to explore our new website at privitycredit.com for a first look at our refreshed brand.

Thank you for your continued trust and partnership. If you have any questions or would like to discuss our rebrand, please don't hesitate to reach out to us directly or your usual contact.

Kind regards,

Ryan Donnar Managing Partner	Atiya Habib Managing Partner	Adam Howell Managing Partner