Frequently asked questions about non-lapsing death benefit nominations

What is a non-lapsing death benefit nomination?

A non-lapsing death benefit nomination is a request by you to the trustee to pay your death benefit to the person or persons nominated in your non-lapsing death benefit nomination form. The trustee may consent to your nomination if your nomination satisfies the requirements described in the following paragraphs.

We are required to follow your nomination if, prior to your death, you complete and we receive your valid non-lapsing death benefit nomination, and we consent to that nomination.

The nomination remains valid until you revoke or make a new nomination. This can provide you with greater certainty on who will receive your death benefit when you die.

Who can I nominate?

A valid non-lapsing death benefit nomination can only nominate your legal personal representative and/or your dependants. Your legal personal representative is the person appointed on your death as the executor or administrator of your estate.

Your dependants are:

- your current spouse
This includes the person at your death to whom you are married or with whom you are in a de facto relationship (whether of the same sex or a different sex) or in a relationship that is registered under a law of a State or Territory.
- your child
This includes any person who at your death is your natural, step, adopted, ex-nuptial or current spouse's child, including a child who was born through artificial conception procedures or under surrogacy arrangements with your current or then spouse.
- any person financially dependent on you
This includes any person who at your death is wholly or partially financially dependent on you. Generally, this is the case if the person receives financial assistance or maintenance from you on a regular basis that the person relies on or is dependent on you to maintain their standard of living at the time of your death.

- any person with whom you have an interdependency relationship
This includes any person where at your death:
 - you have a close personal relationship with this person
 - you live together with this person
 - you or this person provides the other with financial support, and
 - you or this person provides the other with domestic support and personal care.

An interdependency relationship is not required to meet the last three conditions, if the reason these requirements cannot be met is because you or the other person is suffering from a disability.

In establishing whether such an interdependency relationship exists, all of the circumstances of the relationship are taken into account, including (where relevant):

- the duration of the relationship
- whether or not a sexual relationship exists
- the ownership, use and acquisition of property
- the degree of mutual commitment to a shared life
- the care and support of children
- the reputation and public aspects of the relationship (such as whether the relationship is publicly acknowledged)
- the degree of emotional support
- the extent to which the relationship is one of mere convenience, and
- any evidence suggesting that the parties intended the relationship to be permanent.

If you are considering relying on this category of dependency to nominate a person, you should consider completing a statutory declaration addressing these points as evidence of whether such a relationship exists. You should talk to a financial adviser for more information.

You may seek to revoke your nomination or make a new non-lapsing death benefit nomination at any time by completing a new non-lapsing death benefit nomination form in writing, available on our website or by calling us.

Is my nomination effective?

It is important to be aware before completing a non-lapsing death benefit nomination that if your non-lapsing death benefit nomination is valid and the trustee consents to that nomination, the trustee must follow the nomination and it cannot be overruled by the trustee.

However, if you nominate a person who is not your legal personal representative or a dependant when you die, then your nomination will not be valid to the extent that it relates to that person despite any consent granted by the trustee.

If you nominate your legal personal representative, your death benefit will be paid to your estate and distributed in accordance with your Will or the laws of intestacy. This means that the distribution may be challenged if someone disputes your Will or the distribution of your estate.

If you nominate one or more of your dependants, your death benefit will be paid directly to them.

If a person nominated in your non-lapsing death benefit nomination form is no longer a dependant at the date of your death then the proportion of your death benefit which would have been payable to that person will be paid to your legal personal representative.

Tax may be withheld from your death benefit when paid to your dependants or distributed from your estate. There are differing tax treatments of death benefits depending on whether the recipient is your dependant for tax purposes.

It is important to review your nomination regularly to ensure it is still appropriate to your personal circumstances and reflects your wishes. If, after making a non-lapsing death benefit nomination, you marry, separate or divorce, enter a de facto relationship (including same-sex), have a child, or if someone you nominate has died, or someone becomes or is no longer financially dependent upon you or in an interdependency relationship with you, then you should review your non-lapsing death benefit nomination or consider making a new nomination.

How is my death benefit paid?

At the time of your death, we will contact the people you have nominated in your non-lapsing death benefit nomination to ensure that they are still a dependant.

We are also generally required to establish the identity of this person before paying out your death benefit.

If you have nominated one or more of your dependants and/or your legal personal representative, we will pay their proportion of the death benefit to them as a lump sum.

What if I don't have a valid non-lapsing death benefit nomination?

Your death benefit will be paid to your legal personal representative if:

- at the time of your death, you have not completed or we have not received and consented to a valid non-lapsing death benefit nomination
- you have revoked your last non-lapsing death benefit nomination and you have not made a new non-lapsing death benefit nomination
- the person or persons you have nominated cannot be identified or are not your dependant or legal personal representative at the time of your death, or
- the trustee determines that the whole of your non-lapsing death benefit nomination is otherwise invalid.
